Signature: 20 October 1954 Ratification: 1 February 1962	Italy's ratification of the Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons, adopted in New York, on 28 September 1954, Law n. 306 of 1 February 1962: http://www.gazzettaufficiale.it/eli/gu/1962/06/07/142/sg/pdf (IT)
IOB.1.c		Are there reservations in place? Please list them.	Best practice is no reservations. If there are, they should have little or no impact on the rights of stateless people.	Yes, the provisions of Articles 17 & 18 on wage-earning employment and self-employment, are recognised as recommendations only.	https://treaties.un.org/doc/publication/mtdsg/volume%20i/chapter%20v/v-3.en.pdf
IOB.1.d		Does the Convention have direct effect?	Best practice is that the Convention has direct effect, though this may depend on the legal regime.	Yes. Ratification of international treaties through enactment gives automatic legal effect at national level, even without the adoption of implementing legislation (in the case of the 1954 Convention, there is no comprehensive legislation implementing its provisions). IOB.2.c		Are there reservations in place? Please list them.	As above	No.
IOB.2.d		Does the Convention have direct effect?	As above	Yes. Italy ratified the 1961 Convention, which means that it has legal effect. In practice, the rules and safeguards provided in the 1961 Convention are incorporated in national legislation through the Nationality Law. Stateless Population Data

Item	Subtheme	Question	International Norms & Good Practice	Answer	Source
POP.1.a	Availability and sources	Does the State have a standardised ‘stateless’ category in its data collection systems (e.g. census)? Please list available figures for the total stateless population on the territory and describe how data is disaggregated (e.g. by sex, age, residence).	CEDAW, Gen. Rec. 32 (2014): States parties should gather, analyse and make available sex-disaggregated statistical data and trends. Council of the European Union, Conclusions on Statelessness (2015): Recognise the importance of exchanging good practices among Member States concerning the collection of reliable data on stateless persons as well as the procedures for determining statelessness. UNHCR, Global Action Plan to End Statelessness 2014-24 (2014): Improve quantitative and qualitative data on stateless populations. ISI, The World’s Stateless (2014): States should strengthen measures to count stateless persons on their territory. International Recommendations on Statelessness Statistics (IROSS) (endorsed by UN Statistical Commission in 2023): States should use standardised definition of statelessness and consistent indicators for collecting statelessness data. Report of the UN Special Rapporteur on Violence against women and girls, nationality laws and statelessness (2023): States and relevant actors should collect rigorous and comparable data on stateless populations, including data disaggregated by sex, gender, age, and disability status, in accordance with the international recommendations on statelessness statistics and in consultation with relevant stakeholders.	Yes, there is a category for stateless people in the Government’s annual censuses. The most recent data is provided by the Istituto Nazionale di Statistica (ISTAT). The statistical data from population censuses as of 1 January 2024 counts 643 stateless people. The overall number is low because the Italian Government census counts only stateless people who are officially recognised as stateless and in possession of a valid residence permit. The data is disaggregated but the annual census on stateless people shows only sex-disaggregated data for recognised stateless people. In the Government Census, stateless people are distinguished by Regions where they have their residence.	ISTAT Resident foreigners as of 1 January - Citizenship: Italy, regions, provinces - Geopolitical area of citizenship: http://dati.istat.it/Index.aspx?QueryId=22141 ISTAT Data population on stateless people by type of residence permit https://esploradati.istat.it/databrowser/#/it/dw/categories/IT1,POP_1.0/POP_FOREIGNIM/DCIS_PERMSOGG1/IT1,29_348_DF_DCIS_PERMSOGG1_1,1.0
POP.1.b		Do public authorities define data categories that may overlap (e.g. unknown nationality) or where stateless people might be more highly represented (e.g. Palestinian)? Please explain and provide any available figures.	As above	Yes, there are other categories that overlap with statelessness. In the portal of the Italian census on the resident population counted per year, the definitions of “foreigner” and “stateless” are in the same check box (section), so it may overlap. POP.1.c		What is UNHCR’s estimate for the stateless/at risk of statelessness population or population with undetermined nationality and what is the source for this estimate?	As above	UNHCR states on its website, “Although statistics on the exact size of the stateless population in Italy are not available; it is estimated that the majority of stateless people living in Italy are of Roma descent, originating from former Yugoslavia. Many have not been recognised as Italian nationals despite living in the country for generations.” According to estimates currently available, there may be around 3,000 stateless people or people at risk of statelessness or people with undetermined nationality in Italy. The majority of people who are stateless or at risk of statelessness belong to Romani communities from former Yugoslavia who have been living in Italy for many years. From the information available from 2021, it is estimated that there are approximately 1,710 stateless people or people at risk of statelessness belonging to these communities, living in formal or spontaneous settlements. It is also estimated that around 2,250 people from Romani communities of the former Yugoslavia who are stateless or at risk of statelessness are present in Italy. A factor of particular concern is the proportion of minors within this population, which, according to available information, is around 50-55%. The rest of the stateless population in Italy mainly originates from the former USSR, Cuba, China (Tibet), and the Occupied Palestinian Territories. There are no more recent figures, as the exact number of stateless people is difficult to define precisely due to their invisibility in relation to institutions. Another interesting data is the number of valid residence permits indicating 'stateless' in the nationality field, which is included in the publicly accessible ISTAT database (570 as of 1 January 2024).	UNHCR RECOMMENDATIONS ON THE RELEVANT ASPECTS OF THE PROTECTION OF STATELESS PERSONS IN ITALY: https://www.unhcr.org/it/wpcontent/uploads/sites/97/2021/11/Advocacy-Paper-Statelessness_Italy_ENG_Nov21_def.pdf UNHCR, Italy joins top league of countries reducing statelessness: http://www.unhcr.org/ibelong/italy-joins-top-league-of-countries-reducing-statelessness/ UNHCR publication on reducing statelessness, July 2020: https://www.unhcr.org/it/wp-content/uploads/sites/97/2020/07/Porre_Fine_all_Apolidia_IT.pdf UNHCR Global Trends 2024: https://www.unhcr.org/globaltrends.html UNHCR Refugee Data Finder: https://www.unhcr.org/refugee-statistics/download/?url=11DJWv Raccomandazioni del tavolo di lavoro sull’apolidia sulla protezione degli apolidi e sulla riduzione dell’apolidia in Italia, Settembre 2021: https://tavoloapolidia.org/app/uploads/2021/09/Advocacy-Paper-Tavolo-Apolidia_2021_def.pdf Fantasmî urbani: la condizione giuridica dei cittadini rom di origine jugoslava negli insediamenti italiani, pubblicato da Associazione 21 luglio febbraio 2021 https://www.21luglio.org/2018/wp-content/uploads/2021/02/fantasmî-urbani-edit.pdf Report “The impact of statelessness on access to human rights in Italy, Portugal and Spain”, June 2019: https://www.unhcr.org/it/wp-content/uploads/sites/97/2020/08/UNHCR_Impact-of-Statelessness-ITPTES_def_web.pdf Dossier statistico immigrazione 2021, a cura del Centro Studi e Ricerche IDOS, pag. 480 e segg National Strategy for Roma and Sinti Equality, Inclusion and Participation 2021-2030, Implementation of the Recommendation of the Council of the European Union of 12 March 2021 (Strategia Nazionale di uguaglianza, inclusione e partecipazione di Rom e Sinti 2021-2030, Attuazione della Raccomandazione del Consiglio dell’Unione Europea del 12 marzo 2021 (2021/C 93/01)) https://politichecoesione.governo.it/media/2967/strategia-nazionale-rom-e-sinti_2021-2030.pdf ISTAT database: http://dati.istat.it/index.aspx?datasetcode=dcis_permsogg1

POP.1.d		Have there been any surveys or mapping studies to estimate the stateless population in the country?	As above	Yes.	Report “The impact of statelessness on access to human rights in Italy, Portugal and Spain”, June 2019: https://www.unhcr.org/it/wp-content/uploads/sites/97/2020/08/UNHCR_Impact-of-Statelessness-ITPES_def_web.pdf UNHCR Global Trends 2024: https://www.unhcr.org/globaltrends.html Raccomandazioni del tavolo di lavoro sull’apolidia sulla protezione degli apolidi e sulla riduzione dell’apolidia in Italia, Settembre 2021: https://tavoloapolidia.org/app/uploads/2021/09/Advocacy-Paper-Tavolo-Apolidia_2021_def.pdf Dossier statistico immigrazione 2021, a cura del Centro Studi e Ricerche IDOS, pag. 480 e segg.
POP.1.e		Are there any other sources of estimates for the stateless population not covered by the above? Please list sources and figures.	As above	The IDOS Study Centre, based on data collected by MIUR (Ministry of Education, University and Research), published figures on stateless students attending Italian schools. The research shows that, in the school year 2017-2018, 354 stateless people attended Italian schools (58 kindergarten, 179 primary school, 105 secondary school and 12 high school). There are no more recent sources. Another interesting data is the number of valid residence permits indicating "stateless" in the nationality field, which is included in the publicly accessible ISTAT database.	Centro Studi e Ricerche IDOS, Dossier Statistico Immigrazione 2019, p. 471 Centro Studi e Ricerche IDOS , Dossier statistico immigrazione 2021, pag. 480 e segg. UNICEF 2019 report on ending childhood statelessness: https://www.unicef.org/eca/media/5941/file/Ending%20childhood%20statelessness%20in%20Europe%20UNICEF-UNHCR.pdf Osservatorio MSNA CeSPI, Approfondimento n. 17/ dicembre 2023, Minori stranieri non accompagnati in Italia e rischio apolidia: il caso Costa d’Avorio: https://www.cespi.it/sites/default/files/osservatori/allegati/appro_f.17_costa_davorio_e_apolidia_-_lunardini.pdf ISTAT database: http://dati.istat.it/index.aspx?datasetcode=dcis_permsogg1
POP.1.f		Are there issues with the reliability of data or indications that the stateless population may be over/under reported? If yes, please describe.	As above	Issues are mainly related to the difficulty of mapping stateless people without a residence permit about whom very little information is available. Data on the stateless population is likely underreported and underestimated and there are many contradictions in available data. The Italian census system counts only people recognised as stateless in a dedicated determination procedure. The actual situation is largely underreported.	Consiglio Italiano per i Rifugiati (CIR) practice
POP.1.g		Please provide any available figures for stateless refugees and/or asylum-seekers and clarify if the State also counts these groups in figures for the stateless population (i.e. to avoid under/over-reporting).	As above. EASO/EUAA, Practical guide on registration (2021) : States should collect information from applicants for international protection about their nationality(ies) and potential lack of nationality. When registering families, it is important to collect this data for each family member.	There is no official data available on stateless refugees or asylum seekers.

POP.2.a	Stateless in detention data	Does the State record and publish figures on stateless people held in immigration detention? If yes, please provide.	UNHCR, Global Action Plan to End Statelessness 2014-24 (2014): Improve quantitative and qualitative data on stateless populations. CEDAW, Gen. Rec. 32 (2014): State parties should gather, analyse and make available sex-disaggregated statistical data and trends. ISI, The World's Stateless (2014): States should strengthen measures to count stateless persons on their territory. Equal Rights Trust, Guidelines (2012): States must identify stateless persons within their territory or subject to their jurisdiction as a first step towards ensuring the protection of their human rights. Council of the European Union, Conclusions on Statelessness (2015): Recognise the importance of exchanging good practices among Member States concerning the collection of reliable data on stateless persons as well as the procedures for determining statelessness.	There is no official data available on stateless people in immigration detention (Pre-removal centres) in Italy. A 2022 report by the National Guarantor states that 6,383 persons transited through Pre-removal detention centres in 2022 and lists the nationalities held by the detainees, none of which refers to statelessness. According to the 2023 report (covering January-March 2023), out of the 1,457 detainees, one is referred to as "apolide" (recognised stateless person). The most recent Guarantor report does not contain relevant data. However, there have been reports of stateless people in immigration detention.	Garante Nazionale dei diritti delle persone detenute o private della libertà personale, Relazione al parlamento 2023, https://www.garantenazionaleprivatiliberta.it/gnpl/resources/cms/documents/fc13013de38c3ba97c6d0357fe21b941.pdf
POP.2.b		Does the State record and publish figures on people released from immigration detention due to un-removability? If yes, please provide.	As above	There is no official data available on stateless people in administrative immigration detention (Pre-removal centres) in Italy. General data on immigration detention in Italy can be found in the Report to the Parliament by the National Guarantor for the rights of persons detained or deprived of liberty and from NGOs reports (i.e., the Global Detention Project). The statistics published by the National Guarantor that provide the reasons for release from pre-removal detention do not include a category of "un-removability". Persons released from detention for reasons related with un-removability, in particular stateless persons for whom a country of return could not be identified or effected, may potentially fall within the category "order of the Questore for expiration of the maximum term" (20% of the total releases from Pre-removal detention centres). Other categories that may be relevant are "detention not validated by the judicial authority" (23%) and "released for other reasons" (7%). As a rule, un-removable foreigners are not qualified as such under any assessment, therefore they remain exposed to the risk of new detention.	Global Detention Project, Italy Immigration Detention: https://www.globaldetentionproject.org/countries/europe/italy Global Detention Project, Immigration Detention in Italy: Complicit in Grave Human Rights Abuses? SDS.1.a	Definition of a stateless person	Is there a definition of a stateless person in national law? Do the definition and exclusion provisions align with the 1954 Convention? Please provide details.	1954 Convention : Articles 1(1) & 1(2).	Italy ratified the 1954 Convention in February 1962. National law does not provide a definition of a ‘stateless person’ so the 1954 Convention definition applies. SDS.2.a	Training	Is there training to inform different public authorities about statelessness? If yes, please provide details (e.g. who provides training to whom/how often?)	UNHCR Executive Committee, Conclusion No. 106 (LVII) (2006) : Requests UNHCR to actively disseminate information and, where appropriate, train government counterparts on appropriate mechanisms for identifying, recording, and granting a status to stateless persons. HRC, Resolution 53/16 on the right to a nationality (2023) : States should ensure the effective implementation of nationality laws, including through awareness-raising and publicity, and training of public officials, including judges and local leaders, that is gender-responsive and sensitive to race and diversity, informed by meaningful consultation and engagement with stateless leaders and communities and wider civil society.	No compulsory trainings are provided to officials competent for the administrative procedure. A draft law on the recognition of statelessness status submitted in 2015 provided that public administration personnel and administrative stakeholders should receive basic training on the implementation of the regulations of the offices and services in which they perform their activity. A new Parliament was elected in 2018, but the draft law has not been resubmitted and no relevant changes occurred. UNHCR delivers ad hoc statelessness-related training to asylum decision-makers. SDS.2.b		Is there training for judges and lawyers on statelessness? If yes, please provide details (e.g. provider, frequency).	UNHCR, Good Practices Papers – Action 6 (2020) : Officials who may be in contact with stateless persons need to be trained to identify potential applicants for statelessness status and refer them to appropriate channels. UNHCR, Geneva Conclusions (2010) : It is recommended that States provide specialised training on nationality laws and practices, international standards and statelessness to officials responsible for making statelessness determinations. HRC, Resolution 53/16 on the right to a nationality (2023) : as above	Since reforms to the judicial procedure in 2017, which attributed the competence to conduct SDPs to specialised sections of the Civil Court, a specific annual training is provided by the "Scuola Superiore della Magistratura" (Judicial Training Centre). Law 13/2017 states that specialised training is compulsory for judges of the specialised sections and members of territorial commission. UNHCR cooperates with the courts to deliver ad hoc statelessness trainings. Other ad hoc training courses are provided by academics, professionals, lawyers’ associations, NGOs, UNHCR and other civil society associations with trainers from different professional backgrounds. These are mainly focused on immigration issues and are not exclusively concerned with statelessness but do provide some knowledge, tools and skills to address statelessness and the right to nationality. The project The Statelessness Legal Clinics (SLC) - Strengthening Legal Education and Practice on Statelessness by Improving Access to Statelessness Determination Procedures through University Legal Clinics and Training of Students Interested in the Issue aims to ensure that stateless people and people at risk of statelessness living in Italy receive legal assistance in order to benefit from full rights and protection. Every year, CIR participates as lecturer on statelessness issues within the training course on refugees and migrants at Sapienza University. SDS.4.c	Can submissions be made orally and/or in writing in any language?	ENS, Statelessness Determination and the Protection Status of Stateless Persons (2013) : Bureaucratic difficulties (e.g. complicated forms, inflexible procedures, language restrictions etc.) can impede access to SDPs.	There is no provision requiring that the application in the administrative procedure be submitted in any specific language. Practice shows that applicants present their applications in Italian. In the judicial procedure, the appeal must be lodged in Italian and there is no obligation to present evidence in Italian (certified translations). In practice, depending on the language, translation is required to understand the content. Most lawyers prefer to have a certified translation of the documents. In the administrative procedure applications should be made in written form, through the local Prefecture, to the Ministry of Interior. An applicant who wants to claim statelessness status at the Police Headquarters, for example, can ask for information orally, but they are then invited to lodge the application with the Prefecture. All judicial procedures require a written application. SDS.4.d	Must a specific application form be used? Please note any difficulties with forms or other inflexible documentation requirements.	ENS (2013) : Bureaucratic difficulties (e.g. complicated forms, inflexible procedures, language restrictions etc.) can impede access to SDPs.	In the administrative procedure, the application must be submitted in a written format. The Ministry of Interior provides a model application form, but the applicant is not obliged to use it. Moreover, the applicant must provide several documents including a birth certificate, documentation certifying residence in Italy, and either documentation demonstrating statelessness or a declaration from the consulate of the state of origin or former residence certifying they are not a national. Recently, where the applicant has problems providing a birth certificate, the tendency of the Ministry of Interior is to consider that the submission of this document is not compulsory. The application will only be considered admissible without a birth certificate if there is another document from which the person's place and date of birth can be inferred. If there is no document containing this information, the application will still be rejected. This is a practice, but it is not foreseen in the law or in official sources. The practice has been reported by UNHCR, which has a cooperation agreement with the Ministry of Interior. The Ministry of Interior may ask for additional documentation and will only determine statelessness based on the documentation provided, so the application may be refused without an interview if the applicant does not provide all the required documentation. In the judicial procedure, the application must be lodged by a lawyer on behalf of the applicant and submitted in the form provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure. The applicant does not need to provide specific documents to access the procedure, but must be assisted by a lawyer throughout the proceedings before the Civil Court. Hearings are scheduled by the Judge taking into consideration the complexity of the case. SDS.5.a	Assessment (Group 1)	Who has the burden of proof in the SDP in law and practice?	UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014) : The burden of proof is in principle shared (both applicant and examiner must cooperate to obtain evidence and establish the facts). UNHCR, Good Practices Papers – Action 6 (2020) : SDPs must take into consideration the difficulties inherent in proving statelessness. UNHCR, Geneva Conclusions (2010) : In statelessness determination procedures, the burden of proof should therefore be shared between the applicant and the authorities responsible for making the determination. Individuals must cooperate to establish relevant facts. The burden should shift to the State if an individual can demonstrate they are not a national, on the basis of reasonably available evidence. ECtHR, Hoti v. Croatia (2018) : State has responsibility to at least share the burden of proof with the applicant when establishing the fact of statelessness.	The burden of proof in the administrative procedure is on the applicant who must provide all required documentary evidence for the application to be processed. In the judicial procedure, caselaw has underlined that the burden of proof is shared between the applicant and the authority. The applicant should make all possible efforts to clarify their condition of statelessness and support their declarations with evidence. If the applicant does not manage to provide evidence, despite all efforts, the judge can use ex officio powers to assist them. In the case law, a judgment of the Ordinary Court of Florence IV sez.civ. 29.11.21 reaffirmed that the burden of proof on the applicant for statelessness status is mitigated, and any gaps that emerge from their personal story, can be filled with the investigative powers of the judge, by requesting information from the public authorities of the State of origin or the State to which a significant connection is detected. This approach, endorsed by the Court of Cassation in its judgment No. 4262/2015, is also referred to in the UNHCR Handbook for the Protection of Stateless Persons. In 2023, the Ordinary Court of Rome (n.r.g 72509/2022)), in its reasoning, reaffirmed the principle that an applicant for statelessness status is not required to provide proof (which in practice would be impossible) that they are not entitled to any nationality of any country. The applicant should demonstrate their connection with the State in which they are applying for statelessness status (i.e. habitual residence in Italy through documentary evidence or witnesses) and of the factual circumstances which, according to the law of their country of origin, led to the loss or non-acquisition of their first nationality. Note: this case concerned the recognition of Italian nationality by birth of a daughter born in Italy to a stateless mother. SDS.5.b		What is the standard of proof, in law and in practice? Is it the same as in refugee status determination procedures?	UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014): States are advised to adopt the same standard of proof as in refugee status determination ('reasonable degree'). UNHCR, Good practices in nationality laws (2018): The standard of proof should be in keeping with the humanitarian objectives of statelessness status determination and the inherent difficulties of proving statelessness in the likely absence of documentary evidence. ECtHR, Hoti v. Croatia (2018): If statelessness is a relevant factor in the context of access to human rights, the standard of proof when determining the status of statelessness cannot be too high.	The standard of proof is the same as in the asylum procedure. The reduced standard of proof is the result of case law. For example, in 2017, the Cassation Court stated that formal proof of loss of nationality is not required to be granted statelessness status. Statelessness can be inferred from other facts, such as the refusal to grant the person rights usually linked to nationality.	Bittoni G., Statelessness determination procedure in Italy: who bears the burden of proof? SDS.6.g	Is there a timeframe for the SDP set in law or policy and is it complied with in practice?	UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014) : It is undesirable for a first instance decision to be issued more than six months from submission of an application. In exceptional circumstances it may be appropriate to allow the proceedings to last up to 12 months.	A maximum timeframe of 350 days - or 895 days in case the opinion of a foreign authority or Ministry of Foreign Affairs is requested - is set for the administrative procedure, but it is seldom respected in practice. SDS.6.h		Is statelessness identified in asylum procedures? Is there any guidance for officials relating to identification or determination of statelessness within asylum procedures? Is there a referral mechanism from asylum procedures to the SDP (either during or at the conclusion, if the applicant is refused asylum)?	UNHCR, Good Practices Papers – Action 6 (2020): Efficient referral mechanisms should be established and officials who may be in contact with stateless persons trained to identify and refer potential applicants. EASO/EUAA, Practical guide on registration (2021): The country or countries of former habitual residence should be recorded in applications for international protection to facilitate follow-up and referral to a dedicated statelessness determination procedure. Statelessness determination should be carried out only by a competent decision-making authority at an appropriate point in time following the final assessment of an asylum claim. ENS (2013): Cross-referral systems should exist in cases where the two determination procedures (refugee and stateless) are not conducted in a joint framework.	In practice, statelessness is rarely identified during asylum procedures. There is no guidance for the authorities relating to identification or determination of statelessness within asylum procedures. A referral mechanism is not established, but UNHCR and NGOs are advocating for a referral mechanism among relevant authorities However, in a judgment the Court of Florence recognised the statelessness status of an asylum seeker who had been denied refugee status. The lawyer lodged an appeal against the denial of international protection and asked the judge for a preliminary assessment of the applicant's statelessness status. SDS.7.a	Protection during SDP (Group 1)	Does the applicant have automatic legal admission while their claim for statelessness status is assessed or is there a risk of expulsion?	UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014): An individual awaiting a decision is entitled, at a minimum, to all rights based on presence and being 'lawfully in' the territory (including identity documents, the right to self-employment, freedom of movement, protection against expulsion). It is recommended that applicants for statelessness status receive the same treatment as asylum-seekers. ENS (2013): States should refrain from expelling or removing an individual pending the outcome of the determination process.	People who apply for recognition of statelessness status to the Ministry of the Interior or Civil Court may apply and are generally granted temporary permission to stay, renewable while their application is being processed. However, practice shows that the issuance of a residence permit pending the judicial procedure is discretionary to the judge who decides the case and to the Police. It is possible that pending the judicial procedure applicants may be stopped by the police and asked about their status. If the applicant is already in possession of a residence permit (e.g. for study) when applying for statelessness status, a specific temporary residence permit is issued pending the SDP. Article 31 of the 1954 Convention provides that a stateless person cannot be expelled except in cases of well-documented reasons related to national security and public order. In 2019, the Court of Cassation held that this rule shall also apply to people at risk of statelessness and/or pending the SDP, when the statelessness situation of the person emerges clearly from the information or documentation of the competent public authorities of the Italian State, of the State of origin or of the State with which it is established the person has a significant link.	CIR, IN THE SUN, Survey on the phenomenon of statelessness among Roma communities living in Italy, February 2013: http://www.cir-onlus.org/wp-content/uploads/2018/07/In-the-sun_CIR_last-review_final.pdf ASGI Project, Out of Limbo: Promoting the right of undocumented and stateless Roma migrants to a legal status in Italy, May 2015: http://www.asgi.it/progetti/out-of-limbo-english-version/ D.P.R. n. 394/1999, Regolamento recante norme di attuazione del testo unico delle disposizioni concernenti la disciplina dell'immigrazione e norme sulla condizione dello straniero, Art. 11, comma, 1 lett c): https://www.normattiva.it/uri-res/N2Ls?urn:nir:stato:presidente.repubblica:decreto:1999-08-31:394 vig=%20 Court of Cassation, n. 16489, 19/06/2019: http://www.italgiure.giustizia.it/xway/application/nif/clean/hc.dll?verbo=attach&db=snciv&id=.%20190619/snciv@s10@a2019@n16489@tS.clean.pdf
SDS.7.b		Do applicants for statelessness status have permission to work and access to assistance to meet their basic needs?	UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014): Allowing individuals to engage in wage-earning employment can reduce pressure on State resources and contributes to dignity and self-sufficiency. The status of those awaiting statelessness determination must reflect applicable human rights such as, assistance to meet basic needs.	The law does not specify the right to work pending the procedure. In practice, different sources report different and inconsistent practice in relation to the temporary permit and the right to work. The law does not specify the right to assistance for applicants to meet their basic needs. The temporary residence permit issued to applicants that were already in possession of another residence permit allows the right to work. In practice, it is quite unusual for a person to hold a residence permit before applying for statelessness status.	Bianchini K., Protecting Stateless Persons: The Implementation of the Convention Relating to the Status of Stateless Persons Across Europe (Brill 2018), pp. 166-167 Consiglio Italiano per i Rifugiati (CIR) practice D.P.R. n. 394/1999, Regolamento recante norme di attuazione del testo unico delle disposizioni concernenti la disciplina dell'immigrazione e norme sulla condizione dello straniero, Art. 11, comma, 1 lett c): https://www.normattiva.it/uri-res/N2Ls?urn:nir:stato:presidente.repubblica:decreto:1999-08-31:394 vig=%20
SDS.7.c		Do applicants for statelessness status face a risk of detention?	UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014): Routine detention of individuals seeking protection on the grounds of statelessness is arbitrary. Detention is a measure of last resort and can only be justified where other less invasive or coercive measures have been considered and found insufficient to safeguard	In the administrative procedure applicants are issued with a temporary residence permit, so they are not detained. SDS.9.a	Statelessness status (Group 1)	Does recognition of statelessness result immediately in automatic permission to stay/legal status? If not, please describe any additional requirements, admissibility criteria, grounds for refusal or other steps required to access protection.	UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014) : The status granted to a stateless person in a State Party must reflect international standards. Although the 1954 Convention does not explicitly require States to grant a person determined to be stateless a right of residence, granting such permission would fulfil the object and purpose of the treaty.	Recognition of statelessness by the Ministry of the Interior or a civil court allows the person to immediately apply for a residence permit. As there is no law or decree providing detailed rules on this matter, the issuing of the residence permit is based on the 1954 Convention. Once recognised as stateless, there are no additional requirements. The duration of the residence permit depends on each police office, due to lack of regulation on the matter. SDS.9.b		How long is initial status granted for and is it renewable?	UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014) : It is recommended that States grant recognised stateless people a residence permit valid for at least two years, although longer permits, such as five years, are preferable in the interests of stability. Permits should be renewable.	Legally recognised stateless persons are normally granted a permit to stay that is valid for two years and is renewable. However, in practice, the duration of the residence permit is at the discretion of the Police, so there is huge variation. As there is no law or decree providing detailed rules on this matter, the issuing of the residence permit is based on the 1954 Convention. Detention

DET.1.a	Immigration detention	Please provide a brief overview of whether immigration detention powers are provided for in law and applied in practice, and whether alternatives to detention are considered. Please provide the legal source(s) and, if available, refer to other publications and sources of information about the law, policy, and practice on immigration detention.	ICCPR: Article 9 ECHR: Article 5 EU Return Directive: Article 15 UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014): Detention is a measure of last resort and can only be justified where other less invasive or coercive measures have been considered and found insufficient. UN General Assembly (2009): Calls upon all States to adopt alternative measures to detention. HRC, Report of the Special Rapporteur (2012): The obligation to always consider alternatives before resorting to detention should be established by law. International Detention Coalition (2015): Immigration detention should be used only as a last resort in exceptional cases after all other options have been shown to be inadequate in the individual case.	Immigration detention is provided for in the Consolidated Immigration Act, which, although amended 18 times in 26 years, constitutes the main legislation relevant to immigration detention. The last reforms were in Law 46/2017, Law 132/2018, Law 173/2020, Law 50/2023, Law 162/2023 and Law 176/2023. Detention takes place in so called C.P.R.s (Centri di permanenza per i rimpatri, e.g. Pre-Removal Detention Centres). Additionally, there are provisions for detention of asylum seekers in Decree 142/2015. Law 132/2018, subsequently amended by Law 173/2020 and Law 50/2023, introduced an additional article for the detention of asylum seekers in C.P.R.s and/or hotspots for the sole purpose of identification and verification of nationality. Furthermore, Law 50/2023 added the possibility to detain asylum seekers whose application is processed under the so-called "border procedure", entailing a fast, low-guarantees legal framework based on the legal fiction of "non-entry" into the country. This detention takes place in hotspots and/or C.P.R.s. Finally, the same Law 50/2023 introduced an extra kind of detention targeting asylum seekers whose application has to be processed by another EU member State under the "Dublin Regulation". In practice there are blatant violations of ECHR highlighted by caselaw (not necessarily referring to stateless people) related to widespread practice of detaining migrants and asylum seekers in hotspots, due to the lack of a clear and accessible legal basis, the absence of any order giving reasons for the detention and subjection to inhuman and degrading treatment (J.A. and Others v. Italy, application no. 21329/18, M.A. v. Italy, application no. 13110/18, A.B. v. Italy, application no. 13755/18, A.S. v. Italy, application no. 20860/20). It is also highly disputable whether de facto detention of migrants aboard "quarantine boats" represents an instance of unlawful deprivation of liberty. The principle of the State being obliged to consider all less coercive measures prior to issuing a decision to detain is incorporated in art. 14, para. 1-bis, DECRETO LEGISLATIVO n. 286/1998, that foresees the following measures: the obligation to hand over passport to the police until departure; the obligation to reside in a specific domicile where the person can be contacted; the obligation to report to police authorities following police instructions. The same measures are foreseen in the case of detention of asylum seekers (art. 6, para. 5, DECRETO LEGISLATIVO n. 142/15), even if subjected to a transfer order pursuant the Dublin Regulation (Regulation (EU) No 604/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2013), except for asylum seekers subjected to the "border procedure". However, alternative measures to detention are rarely implemented (968 cases in 2021, 343 cases in 2022, according to LASCIADECENTRARE).	DECRETO LEGISLATIVO n. 286, of 25 July 1998, Testo Unico delle Disposizioni Concernenti la Disciplina dell'immigrazione e Norme sulla Condizione dello Straniero, Art. 14 (IT) DECRETO LEGISLATIVO n. 142, of 18 August 2015, Attuazione della direttiva 2013/33/UE recante norme relative all'accoglienza dei richiedenti protezione internazionale, nonché della direttiva 2013/32/UE, recante procedure comuni ai fini del riconoscimento e della revoca dello status di protezione internazionale, Art. 6.8. and 7.3-bis (IT) LEGGE n. 46, of 13 April 2017, Disposizioni urgenti per l'accelerazione dei procedimenti in materia di protezione internazionale, nonché per il contrasto all'immigrazione illegale. DET.1.b		Does a proposed country of removal need to be identified before a person is detained for removal? Nationality information can be provided initially by the detainee. Identification or confirmation of country of removal is not a condition to authorise detention. Rather, detention aims at either identifying the foreigner or obtaining travel documents. Administrative immigration detention is subject to judicial review 60 days (asylum seekers) or three months (all other foreigners) from the first judicial validation of detention. If assessing the person's identity or nationality or obtaining travel documents pose significant hurdles, detention can be extended for a further three months. Detention is subject to one or more extensions of three months, up to a further period of 12 months, in cases where, despite all reasonable efforts having been made, the removal operation has lasted longer because of the detainee's lack of cooperation or delays in obtaining the necessary documentation from third countries.	DECRETO LEGISLATIVO n. 286, of 25 July 1998, Testo Unico delle Disposizioni Concernenti la Disciplina dell'immigrazione e Norme sulla Condizione dello Straniero, Art. 14. 			UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014): Routine detention of individuals seeking protection on the grounds of statelessness is arbitrary. CMW, General comment No. 5 (2021): States should avoid detaining migrants who have specific needs, which includes stateless persons. States should also be aware that stateless persons find themselves in a vulnerable situation, given that consular assistance and protection are unavailable due to their status. Statelessness determination procedures are essential, given that the lack of a country of nationality to be returned to leaves stateless persons at higher risk of arbitrary and indefinite detention. Equal Rights Trust, Guidelines (2012): States must identify stateless persons within their territory or subject to their jurisdiction as a first step towards ensuring the protection of their human rights. ICJ, Migration and International Human Rights Law (2014): The detention of stateless persons can never be justified when there is no active or realistic progress towards transfer to another State.	Italian territory and thus cannot be detained for the purpose of removal. If lacking documents and/or a residence permit, the situation of a person without their nationality confirmed/determined is similar to that of someone with irregular residence status. Authorities must verify the nationality of foreign nationals on arrival, during detention, and in the course of each periodic review of the lawfulness of detention. Referral to an SDP is theoretically possible from detention but there is no specific information provided or referral mechanism in place. Importantly, in June 2019, the Court of Cassation issued a judgment affirming that "de facto" stateless people must enjoy the same guarantees ensured to recognised stateless people, and therefore they cannot be deported unless they pose a threat to security and public order. The claimant had undergone three previous detention periods in C.P.R., all of which had ended without obtaining travel documents, since Bosnia Herzegovina's authorities denied his nationality. The Court upheld the appeal, annulled the new deportation order and found that "Article 31 of the New York Convention, which provides that a stateless person may not be expelled except in cases of documented existence of reasons of national security and public order, extends by analogy to situations of de facto statelessness and/or pending the procedure to ascertain statelessness, when the situation of the person emerges clearly from the information or documentation provided by the competent public authorities of the Italian State, the State of origin or of the State to which a significant connection with the person concerned may be established". The ruling had an important impact to counter the repeated detention of Romani people, in particular, and (other) foreigners who are stateless or without their nationality confirmed/determined in Italy.	CIR, "In the Sun - Survey on the phenomenon of statelessness among Roma communities living in Italy", February 2013, p. 52 (footnote 73) Consiglio Italiano per i Rifugiati (CIR) practice Corte di Cassazione, judgment n. 16489/19 of 19 June 2019 (IT) Melting Pot Europa, "Non è espellibile l'apolide di fatto", 4 July 2019 (IT) ASGI and others, Guida per la persona straniera privata della libertà personale, 2021.
DET.2.b		Is there a definition of vulnerability in law? If yes, does it explicitly include statelessness? If not, please note whether statelessness is considered to be a factor increasing vulnerability.	PICUM, Preventing and Addressing Vulnerabilities in Immigration Enforcement Policies (2021): Statelessness should be explicitly included in the definition of vulnerability. Vulnerability should always be determined and assessed on an individual basis.	The Italian legal system does not recognise statelessness or risk of statelessness as a vulnerability factor. Vulnerable asylum seekers cannot be detained in pre-removal centres. The law defines as vulnerable: minors, unaccompanied minors, pregnant women, single parents with minor children, victims of trafficking, disabled, elderly people, persons affected by serious illness or mental disorders, persons for whom it has been proved they have experienced torture, rape or other serious forms of psychological, physical or sexual violence or violence due to their sexual orientation/gender identity, and victims of genital mutilation (art. 17, para. 1, DECRETO LEGISLATIVO n. 142/2015). Statelessness is not considered as a vulnerability factor per se. The unified sections of the Court of Cassation stated that the condition of vulnerability must be assessed on a case-by-case basis and may be relevant to substantiate the foreign person's right to remain in Italy so as not to violate his/her right to private and family life under Art. 8 ECHR. While statelessness itself is not expressly considered as a vulnerability factor, vulnerability may arise because of the lack of ties of the person with another country where he/she may enjoy the right to private/family life. For very serious conditions, the law grants protection from deportation and a residence permit and therefore people are not detained. However, the assessment of such conditions is not easily accessible, therefore there is evidence of foreigners and stateless people being detained even if seriously ill Concerning asylum seekers, the law prohibits the detention of vulnerable persons, although in practice shortcomings regarding identification and age-assessment procedures mean that this is not always ensured. According to the law, an assessment of vulnerability situations requiring specific assistance should be periodically provided inside C.P.R. However, legal assistance and psychological support are not systematically provided. As of March 2024, no protocol on early identification of and assistance to vulnerable persons, and on the referral system to specialised services and/or reception centres was adopted. Although standards of services in C.P.R. centres are planned pursuing the national regulation on management of the centres, they are insufficient and inadequate, especially for vulnerable categories of individuals. DET.2.d		Are stateless people detained in practice?	As above.	Yes, people without their nationality confirmed/determined can be detained in practice as a direct consequence of their lack of documents and their irregular residence status in Italy. Although no official data is published on the detention of stateless people, the Human Rights Committee of the Italian Senate in 2017 noted the detention of a number of people at risk of statelessness, many from Romani communities living in Italy for many years. There is also a 2015 judgment concerning a woman with five children detained in a Pre-Removal Centre despite it being clear that repatriation was impossible because of the impossibility to identify a 'country of origin'. The judge ruled in favour of the family,	DECRETO LEGISLATIVO n. 286, of 25 July 1998, Testo Unico delle Disposizioni Concernenti la Disciplina dell'immigrazione e Norme sulla Condizione dello Straniero, art. 14. A 2019 judgment by the Court of Cassation (see above, under DET.1.e) stated that detention of "de facto" stateless people needs to follow the same rules as that of people whose statelessness has been determined, i.e., they cannot be expelled unless they pose a threat to security and public order.	ASGI, "Out of limbo: Verso uno status legale per le persone rom prive di documenti, apolide o a rischio di apolidia", May 2015 (IT) Annalisa Camilli, "Chi sono le donne rinchiusi nel centro di espulsione di Roma", Internazionale, 11 February 2019 (IT)
DET.3.a	Procedural safeguards	Are there adequate procedural safeguards in place for individuals in immigration detention (e.g. maximum period of detention, automatic release at the end, decisions in writing, regular periodic reviews, judicial oversight, legal aid, etc.)?	ICCPR: Article 9(4) ECHR: Article 5(4) EU Return Directive: Articles 12, 13 and 15(5) HRC, Report of the Working Group on Arbitrary Detention (2010): A maximum period of detention must be established by law and upon expiry the detainee must be automatically released. CMW, General comment No. 5 (2021): States parties are obligated to adopt legislative and other measures, allocate adequate resources, and provide relevant training to comply with the CMW. There should be a maximum period for immigration detention established in legislation, with automatic release at the end of that period, and which precludes re-detention. States should also be aware that stateless persons find themselves in a vulnerable situation, given that consular assistance and protection are unavailable due to their status. UNHCR, Detention Guidelines (2012): To guard against arbitrariness, maximum periods of detention should be set in national law. UNHCR, Handbook on Protection (2014): Judicial oversight of detention is always necessary and detained individuals need to have access to legal representation, including free counselling for those without means. UNGA, Body of Principles (1988): Anyone who is arrested shall be informed at the time of the reason for their arrest. Equal Rights Trust, Guidelines (2012): Stateless detainees shall receive their order of detention in writing and in a language they understand. To avoid arbitrariness, detention should be subject to automatic, regular and periodic review throughout the period of detention, before a judicial body independent of the detaining authorities. Detention should always be for the shortest time possible. International Commission of Jurists, Migration and International Human Rights Law: A Practitioners' Guide (2014): The authorities shall ensure that sufficient information is available to detained persons in a language they understand on the nature of their detention and reasons for it. ECtHR, Kim v. Russia (2014): The purpose of Article 5(4) ECHR is to guarantee to persons who are detained the right to judicial supervision of the lawfulness of the measure.	Detention is always ordered by the District Police Chief and needs to be validated by a judge (Tribunal, for asylum seekers; Justice of Peace for all others), located in the same District as the pre-removal centre, within 96 hours of issuing the detention order. For asylum seekers, detention can be imposed for 60 days and subsequently extended for additional 60 days periods. The maximum time limit is 12 months. For non-asylum seekers, detention can be imposed initially for three months and can be subsequently extended for additional three months periods. The maximum length is 18 months Detainees are automatically released at the end of the maximum time limit. Cumulative time spent in detention does not count towards the maximum time limit. In theory, a person could be detained for 18 months (as a non-asylum seeker) and, by applying for asylum on the last day of this period, be detained for up to other 12 months. Regular periodic reviews are provided for in the Consolidated Immigration Act (for non-asylum seekers) and in Decree Law 142/2015 (for asylum seekers). Judicial control by Justices of Peace is mostly formal and often consists in rubber-stamping detention requests by the Police Chief. This is confirmed by several investigations, from Lexilium - Osservatorio sulla giurisprudenza in materia di immigrazione del Giudice di pace to the Sub-Committee on the Prevention of Torture (SPT), which, after a visit to Italy in 2016, reported the perception among migrants that judicial hearings regarding detention and expulsion "were a pro forma exercise and did not take the individual circumstances of migrants adequately into account". According to findings (ASGI, La giurisdizione apparente, see in Source), most decisions from Justice of the Peace lack sufficient reasoning and, in a significant number of cases, do not provide any reasoning at all, only resorting to standard clauses. Detainees must be informed in writing of the reasons for detention, their rights and obligations, in a language they are reasonably supposed to understand. Translation for less commonly spoken languages however is not ensured, being limited to vehicular languages (English, French, Spanish, and Arabic). Detainees can only appeal to the Court of Cassation against the initial validation and subsequent extensions of detention. The remedy can only challenge violations of law (not the merits of the claim) and the appeal does not have suspensive effect (i.e., the	DECRETO LEGISLATIVO n. 286, of 25 July 1998, Testo Unico delle Disposizioni Concernenti la Disciplina dell'immigrazione e Norme sulla Condizione dello Straniero, Art. 13 and 14 (IT) DECRETO LEGISLATIVO n. 142, of 18 August 2015, Attuazione della direttiva 2013/33/UE recante norme relative all'accoglienza dei richiedenti protezione internazionale, nonché della direttiva 2013/32/UE, recante procedure comuni ai fini del riconoscimento e della revoca dello status di protezione internazionale, Art. 6.8 (IT) LEGGE n. 173, of 18 December 2020, Conversione in legge, con modificazioni, del decreto-legge 21 ottobre 2020, n. 130. The remedy is partly ineffective as it ordinarily takes the Court of Cassation approximately one year to issue a decision, often long after the detainee has been repatriated or released for reaching the maximum detention timeframe. The detainee can at any time apply for a re-examination of the previous detention order (validation or extension) where circumstances have arisen warranting release. Assistance by a lawyer is compulsory in all hearings, and if the detainee does not have one, an ex officio lawyer is appointed. The right to free legal aid is provided by law for all foreigners subjected to a removal procedure, regardless of income. In principle, organisations running the centres provide legal assistance, but legal operators are few, generally inexperienced and often have part-time contracts. In practice, it is often difficult for lawyers to contact clients in detention. All pre-removal centres have adopted a practice of confiscating mobile phones from detainees upon their admission, which makes it extremely difficult to maintain a communication channel with their clients. Public telephones are available but are not operating inbound, which prevents phone calls from outside (including lawyers) to reach the centre, and detainees receive scratch cards to place phone calls. The new Ministry of Interior's regulation on C.P.R. management, of May 2022, allow detainees to access their mobile phone to retrieve stored numbers, but using a smartphone with photo/video capabilities remains prohibited.

PRS.1.a	Naturalisation	In what timeframe do stateless people who are residing on the territory acquire the right to apply for naturalisation, and how does this compare to others with a foreign nationality?	1954 Convention: Article 32 UNHCR, Good Practices Papers – Action 6 (2020): It is recommended that States Parties facilitate, as far as possible, the naturalisation of stateless persons. CoE Committee of Ministers, Recommendation No. R (99) 18 (1999): Each State should facilitate the acquisition of its nationality by stateless persons lawfully and habitually resident on its territory. ENS (2013): The main benchmark is if there is any preferential treatment for stateless people compared to the general rules applied to those with a foreign nationality. Report of the UN Special Rapporteur on Violence against women and girls, nationality laws and statelessness (2023): States should lower legal and practical hurdles to citizenship and establish pathways for naturalisation that are equally accessible to women and men.	Persons with statelessness status may apply for naturalisation after five years (reduced from 10 years for other non-EU nationals) of uninterrupted lawful residence if other requirements are also met (i.e. income, good character, etc.) The first civil section of the Court of Cassation, in its judgment no. 22991 of 29 May 2024, clarified the declaratory nature of the recognition of statelessness in accordance with the 1954 Convention. According to the Supreme Court, in accordance with Article 1 of the Convention defining the concept of statelessness, both the judicial decision and the administrative decision on the recognition of statelessness are of a declaratory nature, with the consequence that the status is acquired at the moment of pronouncement. Consequently, the Court ruled that it was not necessary to wait for five years of lawful residence on Italian territory from the moment the status was recognised by a judicial decision in order to obtain Italian nationality. In fact, the status of stateless person is a legal status, a subjective right, with the consequence that all the measures taken by the competent bodies in this matter are merely declaratory and not constitutive. Therefore, the Ministry of Interior must certify the status of statelessness, which it does not grant, but only recognises and certifies.	LEGGE 5 febbraio 1992, n. 91, Nuove norme sulla cittadinanza, Legge 132/18, Art. 9(1)(e): https://www.normattiva.it/atto/caricaDettaglioAtto?atto.dataPubblicazioneGazzetta=1992-02-15&atto.codiceRedazionale=092G0162&atto.articolo.numero=0&qId=&tabID=0.7809808931921656&title=lbl.dettaglioAtto (IT) Ordinanza Corte di Cassazione del 29 maggio 2024: https://i2.res.24o.it/pdf2010/S24/Documenti/2024/08/26/AllegatiPDF/22991.pdf

PRS.2.a	Stateless born on territory	Is there a provision in law for stateless children born on the territory to acquire nationality, regardless of sex, gender, or residence status of their parents? [If yes, continue to PRS2b. If no, proceed to PRS2i]	1961 Convention : Article 1 CRC : Article 7 ECN : Article 2 Joint General Comment No. 4 (2017) CMW and No. 23 (2017) CRC : States should strengthen measures to grant nationality to children born in their territory in situations where they would otherwise be stateless. HRC, CCPR General comment No. 17 (1989) : States are required to adopt every appropriate measure, both internally and in cooperation with other States, to ensure that every child has a nationality when he is born. HRC, Resolution 53/16 on the right to a nationality (2023) : States should facilitate the acquisition of nationality by children born on their territories or to their nationals abroad who would otherwise be stateless. Report of the UN Special Rapporteur on Violence against women and girls, nationality laws and statelessness (2023) : States should implement the CEDAW and uphold their obligations under the CRC, to ensure the child's right to acquire their parents' nationality without discrimination on the basis of sex or residency status, and review and reform nationality laws and practices relating to nationality that discriminate on any prohibited grounds, including on the basis of sex or gender. European Parliament resolution (2018) : The EU and its MS should ensure that childhood statelessness is adequately addressed in national laws in full compliance with Article 7 CRC. European Parliament Resolution (2019) : States should find a solution to the issue of stateless children within and outside the EU. The European Commission should promote the child's right to acquire a nationality. Human Rights Committee, D.Z. v. Netherlands (2020) : States must adopt every appropriate measure to ensure that every child has a nationality when they are born. UNCRC, MKAH v Switzerland, no 95/2019 (2021) : Article 7 CRC requires States to take positive action to implement the right to acquire a nationality.	In the Italian system, nationality is regulated by Law 91/1992 and implementing decrees 572/1993 and 362/1994. Generally, the acquisition of nationality is based on the jus sanguinis principle. The criterion of jus soli is applied exclusively in a residual manner. An Italian national at birth is anyone "(...) who is born on the territory of the Republic if both parents are unknown or stateless, or if the child does not follow the nationality of his/her parents in accordance with the laws of their State of origin". In practice, children born in Italy to stateless parents acquire nationality: 1. When both parents are unknown or recognised as stateless by law; 2. When under the law of the parents' country of origin, children born abroad do not acquire their parents' nationality (e.g. because ius soli is applied). Italian Nationality is also recognised at birth to a child found on the Italian territory, whose parents are both unknown. However, a further requirement must be fulfilled in that "it has not been proven [that the person concerned] possesses any other nationality". A recent decision of the Ordinary Court of Rome (n.r.g 72509/2022) declared the Italian nationality in favour of the daughter of a "de facto" stateless woman (the only parent to have recognised the applicant at birth). In the absence of the formal recognition of the parent's statelessness status, the daughter applied directly for the declaration of the Italian nationality in her favour (claim "per saltum"). Firstly, the Court ascertained that the mother, born in Italy to Yugoslavian parents, was a "de facto" stateless person, so was not able to transmit any nationality to her daughter. Consequentially, the judge correctly applied the above-described principles on the acquisition of Italian nationality for a child born in Italy to stateless parents and recognised her Italian nationality. UNHCR, Guidelines on Statelessness No. 4 (2012) : The 1961 Convention provides Contracting States with two alternatives for granting nationality to otherwise stateless children born in their territory:	It is automatic by law, but non-automatic in practice. PRS.2.c		Are parents provided with information about their child's nationality rights and relevant procedures, including where the child would otherwise be stateless or has undetermined nationality?	UNHCR, Guidelines on Statelessness No. 4 (2012): Contracting States are obliged to provide detailed information to parents of children who would otherwise be stateless or of undetermined nationality about the possibility of acquiring the nationality, how to apply and about the conditions which must be fulfilled. If the child concerned can acquire the nationality of a parent immediately after birth, States that opt to not grant nationality to children in these circumstances must assist parents in initiating the relevant procedure with the authorities of their State or States of nationality.	No, there is no specific procedure for this.
PRS.2.d		Is it a requirement that the parents are also stateless for the otherwise stateless child to acquire nationality?	UNHCR, Guidelines on Statelessness No. 4 (2012): The test is not an inquiry into whether a child's parents are stateless. ENS, No Child Should Be Stateless (2015): Only allowing access to nationality for stateless children whose parents are stateless fails to account for the circumstance where the parents hold a nationality but are unable to pass this on.	No. Children born in Italy to stateless parents or parents who cannot confer a nationality to the child are Italian. However, with the exception of the recent decision of the Ordinary Court of Rome (n.r.g. 72509/2022), only parents recognised as stateless are considered as such for the purposes of the law and, if the statelessness of the parents is not recognised, there is no safeguard and the child remains stateless.	LEGGE 5 febbraio 1992, n. 91, Nuove norme sulla cittadinanza, modificata dalla Legge 132/18, Art. 1(1)(b): https://www.normattiva.it/atto/caricaDettaglioAtto?atto.dataPubblicazioneGazzetta=1992-02-15&atto.codiceRedazionale=092G0162&atto.articolo.numero=0&qId=&tabID=0.7809808931921656&title=lbl.dettaglioAtto (IT) Tribunale ordinario di Roma, Sez Diritti della persona e immigrazione civile, ordinanza 72509/2022 del 26.10.2023 https://www.meltingpot.org/2024/02/cittadinanza-italiana-in-favore-della-figlia-di-una-persona-apolide-de-facto/
PRS.2.e		Are stateless children required to prove they cannot access another nationality to acquire the nationality of the country of birth? If yes, please describe how this is determined in practice.	UNHCR, Guidelines on Statelessness No. 4 (2012): A Contracting State cannot avoid the obligations to grant its nationality to a person who would otherwise be stateless based on its own interpretation of another State's nationality laws. The burden of proof must be shared between the claimant and the authorities, but in the case of children the State assumes a greater share of the burden of proof. Decision-makers must consider Articles 3 & 7 CRC and adopt an appropriate standard of proof. Special procedural considerations to address the acute challenges faced by children in communicating basic facts about their nationality should be respected. Human Rights Committee, D.Z. v. Netherlands (2020): The burden of proof must be shared between the claimant and the authorities of the contracting State to obtain evidence and to establish the facts as to whether an individual would otherwise be stateless.	The provision is automatic in law, but in practice parents must provide relevant supporting document. At the registration of birth, parents are required to provide a declaration of birth and an identification document (e.g. a permit to stay or a passport). Documentation can be substituted by two witnesses in the case of undocumented migrants. In this situation, the child is registered with the nationality of their parents based on their alleged origin. In the case of statelessness, undetermined or uncertain nationality (e.g. Romani people facing problems acquiring evidence from their 'country of origin'), or parents who cannot transmit their nationality due to the law in their country of nationality, they must be proactive in filing a request and supporting it with relevant documentation for the acquisition of Italian nationality at birth to the municipal Nationality Office. Practice shows for example that parents are required to provide a declaration by their country of origin stating that the child is not a national under domestic law. When the evidence is seemed insufficient, the child will not be granted Italian nationality, even if they do not acquire another nationality. The safeguards do not apply in favour of children who can acquire nationality through purely bureaucratic formalities (e.g. registration at the consulate).	LEGGE 5 febbraio 1992, n. 91, Nuove norme sulla cittadinanza, modificata dalla Legge 132/18, Art. 1(1)(b): https://www.normattiva.it/atto/caricaDettaglioAtto?atto.dataPubblicazioneGazzetta=1992-02-15&atto.codiceRedazionale=092G0162&atto.articolo.numero=0&qId=&tabID=0.7809808931921656&title=lbl.dettaglioAtto (IT) CIR-ENS, Ending Childhood Statelessness: A study on Italy, Working paper 07/15, June 2015: https://www.statelessness.eu/resources/ending-childhood-statelessness-study-italy

PRS.2.h		What are the age limits and fees (if any) for making an application for nationality for a stateless person born on the territory?	1961 Convention: Article 1(2) UNHCR, Guidelines on Statelessness No. 4 (2012): Contracting States need to accept applications lodged at a time beginning not later than the age of 18 and ending not earlier than the age of 21. Where Contracting States grant nationality to individuals who would otherwise be stateless upon application, they are encouraged to accept such applications free of charge. ENS, No Child Should Be Stateless (2015): Closing the window of opportunity to apply for a nationality has the effect of leaving it in the hands of parents to take the necessary steps to secure a nationality for their child.	In addition to situations where nationality is granted at birth, Italian legislation provides another mode of acquisition of nationality based on conditional jus soli. This criterion is applied to otherwise stateless children who, albeit born on Italian territory do not obtain Italian nationality at birth since they do not fall in the legal situations enshrined in art 1 of law 91/92. Article 4 paragraph 2 of Law n. 91/1992 states that "the foreign person born in Italy, who has been legally resident without interruption on its territory until the age of majority, becomes a national upon application, filed within one year from turning 18, where (s)he expresses the willingness to acquire Italian nationality". This rule must be considered as a safeguard for children born in Italy whose parents are at risk of statelessness. If the child remains stateless on reaching the age of majority, they may submit an application for Italian nationality up to the age of 19 if they can meet certain conditions, including a declaration of will (dichiarazione di volontà) to the competent authority, and uninterrupted residence proven through residence permits, school reports, vaccination records, medical certificates etc. In this specific case a fee of EUR 250 is required.	LEGGE 5 febbraio 1992, n. 91, Nuove norme sulla cittadinanza, modificata dalla Legge 132/18, Arts. 4(2) & 1(1)(b): https://www.normattiva.it/atto/caricaDettaglioAtto?atto.dataPubblicazioneGazzetta=1992-02-15&atto.codiceRedazionale=092G0162&atto.articolo.numero=0&qid=&tabID=0.7809808931921656&title=lbl.dettaglioAtto (IT) Read in conjunction with: DECRETO DEL PRESIDENTE DELLA REPUBBLICA 12 ottobre 1993, n. 572 Regolamento di esecuzione della legge 5 febbraio 1992, n. 91, recante nuove norme sulla cittadinanza. PRS.2.i		Are there specific provisions to protect the right to a nationality of children born to refugees?	UNHCR, Guidelines on Statelessness No. 4 (2012) : Where the nationality of the parents can be acquired through a registration or other procedure, this will be impossible owing to the very nature of refugee status which precludes refugee parents from contacting their consular authorities. UNHCR, Best Interests Procedure Guidelines: Assessing and Determining the Best Interests of the Child (2021) : The best interests principle applies to all children within the territory of the State, irrespective of their status.	No, but the tendency of the Ministry of Interior is to consider favourably applications for nationality of children of refugees born in Italy who cannot inherit the nationality of their parents because the latter cannot go to the consular authorities to register the birth.
PRS.3.a	Foundlings	Are foundlings granted nationality automatically by law? If not automatic, please describe the procedure.	1961 Convention : Article 2 ECN : Article 6(1)(b)	By law, a person found on the Italian territory is an Italian national at birth. However, a further requirement is that 'it has not been proven [that the person concerned] possesses any other nationality'. This criterion is impossible to satisfy so the provision is interpreted to mean the child acquires Italian nationality unless there is proof that (s)he has obtained another. If an unrecognised child is abandoned in a hospital or other institution, or anywhere on Italian territory, the child is automatically granted Italian nationality at the moment of registration at the Population Registry Office. The civil officer who receives the communication of abandonment, drafts a report, gives a name and surname to the child, immediately informs the competent authorities, and registers the child in the Municipality as an Italian national. PRS.3.b		Is there an age limit (e.g. 'new-born' or 'infant') in law or practice specifying when a foundling would qualify for nationality?	UNHCR, Guidelines on Statelessness No. 4 (2012) : At a minimum, the safeguard should apply to all young children who are not yet able to communicate information about the identity of their parents or their place of birth.	There is no reference to an age limit in the nationality law. In the Civil Code, the word 'foundling' is connected to the birth of the child. A order of the Court of Naples (2 March 2022) granted Italian nationality at birth to a foundling at the age of 12. The applicant first applied for formal recognition as a stateless person (which was granted) and then applied for Italian nationality at birth under Article 1(2) of Law 91/1992. The civil municipal official rejected his application on the grounds that in its interpretation the aforementioned provision only applies when the foundling is a new-born child. In the course of the proceedings, the Ministry of Interior intervened in support of the registrar's position by producing an opinion stating that a person can only be considered a foundling if he is a new-born child or in any case a child not yet able to speak. The judge rejected the argument arguing that the law only provides that there is no evidence available on the foundling's nationality. Although such cases are extremely limited in practice, this is a relevant decision that addresses the Ministry of Interior's strict interpretation of Article 1(2) of Law 91/1992 and aligns with UNHCR's Guidelines on Statelessness No. 4. It remains to be seen whether the Ministry of the Interior will change its position accordingly. On the basis of the information acquired by CIR the strict interpretation of the Ministry of Interior is confirmed. PRS.5.a	Ius sanguinis	Can children born to nationals abroad acquire nationality by descent (ius sanguinis) in general and/or if they would otherwise be stateless?	1961 Convention : Article 4 UNHCR, Guidelines on Statelessness No. 4 (2012) : Where a child who would otherwise be stateless is born to parents of another Contracting State but does not acquire the nationality of the State of birth responsibility falls to the Contracting State of the parents to grant its nationality to the child.	Jus sanguinis is the principle determining Italian nationality irrespective of where the child is born. The acquisition of nationality occurs automatically where Italian descent is registered at birth. On 26 November 2024, the Court of Bologna issued an order in which it raised an ex officio objection to the constitutional illegality of the Italian provisions on nationality, in so far as they provide for "recognition of citizenship iure sanguinis without any temporal limit". In particular, the Court asked the Constitutional Court to assess whether it was compatible with the principles deriving from the Constitution to recognise nationality solely on the basis of the existence of an ancestor, even if many generations old, of persons who have no cultural, linguistic or traditional ties or who have no connection with the Italian territory. On 3 October 2024, the Ministry of Interior issued Circolare 43347, providing that if an Italian ancestor naturalised as a foreign national while their children were minors, those children automatically lost their Italian nationality unless they reacquired it between the ages of 21 and 22. Failure to do so results in the automatic loss of nationality for both the ancestor and descendants. This raises challenges in particular for people unaware of this requirement. PRS.6.c	Is the child's nationality determined or recorded upon birth registration? If yes, please describe how and by whom (e.g. if the mother/father's nationality is recorded and/or automatically attributed to the child, if there's a formal procedure, if information on both parents is recorded etc.)	CRC : Articles 3 & 7	The birth certificate does not contain the nationality of the child, but only that of the parents. The child's nationality is recorded at the time of registration (anagrafica) on the Municipal Population Registry. The nationality is often automatically recorded on the basis of the parents' nationality. If this is unclear, practice shows that the tendency is to record a presumed nationality, such as that of the parents' country of origin. A recent indication by Anusca (the National Association of Civil Status and Registry Officials) establishes that in the absence of documents proving the nationality of the person concerned (e.g.	DECRETO DEL PRESIDENTE DELLA REPUBBLICA 30 maggio 1989, n. 223 Approvazione del nuovo regolamento anagrafico della popolazione Residente, Art. 20: https://www.normattiva.it/uri-res/N2Ls?urn:nir:stato:decreto.del.presidente.della.repubblica:1989-05-30;223!vig=2017-12-07 (IT) A.N.U.S.C.A., Associazione Nazionale Ufficiali di Stato Civile e d'Anagrafe: http://www.anusca.it/home

Yes. According to estimates currently available, there may be around 3,000 stateless people or people at risk of statelessness in Italy. The majority of stateless people or people at risk of statelessness belong to Romani communities from former Yugoslavia who have been living in Italy for many years. From the information available, it is possible to estimate the presence of approximately 1,710 stateless people or people at risk of statelessness belonging to these communities, living in formal or spontaneous settlements. Taking these situations into account, it is possible to estimate the presence of about 2,250 Roma in total, stateless or at risk of statelessness from the former Yugoslavia. A factor of particular concern is the proportion of minors within this population, which, according to available information, is around 50-55%. The rest of the stateless population in Italy mainly originates from former USSR, Cuba, China (Tibet), and the Occupied Palestinian Territories. Since the dissolution of Yugoslavia, it became difficult (or impossible), for ex-nationals of the former Yugoslavia to obtain nationality from the new states that emerged. The problem disproportionately affected Romani communities who had already arrived in Italy before the dissolution but also those who arrived after. They often lack any documentation and encounter obstacles when seeking to clarify their civil status. Romani children born in Italy to displaced families from the former Yugoslavia are thus disproportionately impacted. They often face difficulties accessing legal status and obtaining Italian nationality, passing on the risk of statelessness from generation to generation. PRS.8.e		Are there any provisions on deprivation of nationality in a national security context (regardless of whether they could render a person stateless)? Please describe these provisions and if/how they are applied in practice.	Principles on Deprivation of Nationality Principle 4: States shall not deprive persons of nationality for the purpose of safeguarding national security. Where provisions exist, these should be interpreted narrowly and in accordance with international law standards. UNHCR Guidelines on Statelessness No.5 (2020) : Laws that permit deprivation of nationality on the grounds of terrorism should be publicly available and precise enough to enable individuals to understand the scope of impermissible conduct. CoE, PACE Resolution 2263 (2019) : States should review provisions allowing for deprivation of nationality on terrorism grounds in light of international human rights obligations, refrain from applying this measure and envisage and prioritise wider use of other counter-terrorism measures.	Yes. 2018 amendments to the Nationality Law introduced the possibility to deprive naturalised nationals of their Italian nationality in the event of a final sentence for the following crimes: terrorist acts; subversion of the constitutional order; subversive association; constitution, promotion or participation in armed groups; assistance and training of members of armed groups; assistance of members of subversive associations and of terrorist associations; misappropriation of properties and funds seized in order to prevent from financially supporting terrorist activities. The provision is motivated by national security. The law does not provide any remedies if it renders a person stateless. There is no information available on whether the provisions are applied in practice. PRS.8.f		Are there any provisions on deprivation of nationality that directly or indirectly discriminate a person or group of persons on any ground prohibited under international law or that discriminate between nationals? Please describe these provisions and if/how they are applied in practice.	ICCPR : Article 26 1961 Convention : Article 9 ECN : Article 5 Principles on Deprivation of Nationality : Principle 6. Prohibited grounds for discrimination include race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, ethnicity, property, birth or inheritance, disability, sexual orientation or gender identity, or other real or perceived status, characteristic or affiliation. Each State is also bound by the principle of non-discrimination between its nationals. CoE, PACE Resolution 2263 (2019) : States should not discriminate between citizens on the basis of the way in which they have acquired nationality, in order to avoid indirect discrimination against minorities.	Yes. The provisions on deprivation following a criminal conviction (see PR.7.e) apply only to people who acquired Italian nationality by naturalisation, not to Italian nationals by birth. There is no information available on whether the provisions are applied in practice. PRS.8.g		Are there safeguards to prevent derivative loss of nationality (i.e., loss of nationality on the basis that a parent or a spouse has been deprived of that nationality)? Please describe the potential impact of deprivation on children and spouses.	1961 Convention : Article 6 CRC : Articles 2(2), 7 and 8 CEDAW : Article 9(1) Principles on Deprivation of Nationality : States must take all appropriate measures to ensure that the child is protected against all forms of discrimination or punishment on the basis of the status, activities, expressed opinions, or beliefs of the child's parents, legal guardians, or family members (Principle 9.7). The derivative loss of nationality is prohibited (Principle 9.8).	The only case, in theory, would be if a parent had acquired their nationality on the basis of fraudulent declarations. The loss/deprivation of their nationality could affect the children, but there is no evidence so far of any practice in this regard.

The 1954 Convention applies only to those who do not have any nationality and not to those who, although entitled, did not activate the procedure to obtain it. · Court of Cassation n.25212, 08/11/2013: The condition of statelessness must be evaluated not only formally, but also substantially. · Court of Cassation n.4262, 03/03/2015: The burden of proof on the claimant in statelessness determination procedures should be attenuated and judges may use their investigative powers when intervention is needed. The lawyer lodged an appeal against the denial of international protection and asked the judge for a preliminary assessment of the applicant's statelessness status. The Court, considering the connection between the statelessness and asylum request, decided to handle them in the same procedure, recognising the statelessness status. Court of Naples (2 March 2022): the Court granted Italian nationality at birth to a foundling at the age of 12. The applicant first applied for formal recognition as a stateless person (which was granted) and then applied for Italian citizenship at birth under Article 1(2) of Law 91/1992. The civil municipal official rejected his application on the grounds that in his interpretation the aforementioned provision only applies when the foundling is a new-born child. In the course of the proceedings, the Ministry of Interior intervened in support of the registrar's position by producing an opinion stating that a person can only be considered a foundling if he is a new-born child or in any case a child not yet able to speak. The judge rejected the argument arguing that the law only provides that there is no evidence available on the foundling's nationality. Although such cases are extremely limited in practice, this is a relevant decision that addresses the Ministry of the Interior's strict interpretation of Article 1(2) of Law 91/1992 and aligns with UNHCR's Guidelines on Statelessness No. 4. It remains to be seen whether the Ministry of the Interior will change its position accordingly. Ordinary Court of Florence, 01/06/2022: the judge recognised the statelessness status of a young man born in Ghana to a Liberian mother. 				A recent decision of the Ordinary Court of Rome (n.r.g 72509/2022) declared the Italian nationality in favour of the daughter of a "de facto" stateless woman (the only parent to have recognised the applicant at birth). In the absence of the formal recognition of the parent's statelessness status, the daughter applied directly for the declaration of the Italian nationality in her favour (claim "per saltum"). Firstly, the Court ascertained that the mother, born in Italy to Yugoslavian parents, was a "de facto" stateless person, so was not able to transmit any nationality to her daughter. Consequentially, the judge correctly applied the above-described principles on the acquisition of Italian nationality for a child born in Italy to stateless parents and recognised her Italian nationality. The first civil section of the Court of Cassation, in its judgment no. 22991 of 29 May 2024, clarified the declaratory nature of the recognition of statelessness in accordance with the 1954 New York Convention. According to the Supreme Court, in accordance with Article 1 of the Convention defining the concept of statelessness, both the judicial decision and the administrative decision on the recognition of statelessness are of a declaratory nature, with the consequence that the status is acquired at the moment of pronouncement. Consequently, the Court ruled that it was not necessary to wait for five years of legal residence on Italian territory from the moment the status was recognised by a judicial decision in order to obtain the Italian Citizenship. In fact, the status of stateless person is a legal status, a subjective right, with the consequence that all the measures taken by the competent bodies in this matter are merely declaratory and not constitutive. Therefore, the Ministry of the Interior must certify the status of statelessness, which it does not grant, but only recognises and certifies. On 26 November 2024, the Court of Bologna issued an order in which it raised an ex officio objection to the constitutional illegality of the Italian provisions on citizenship, in so far as they provide for "recognition of citizenship iure sanguinis without any temporal limit". In particular, the Court asked the Constitutional Court to assess whether it was compatible with the principles deriving from the Constitution to recognise citizenship solely on the basis of the existence of an ancestor, even if many generations old, of persons who have no cultural, linguistic or traditional ties or who have no connection with Italian territory.
